

CHILDREN'S BOOKS THAT SURPRISE & DELIGHT

Reuniting with grandkids you haven't seen for a while? Looking for a gift for your favorite youngster? These children's books engage and educate.

Cinderella of Mendocino

The heroine in this fantastic new children's book lives in a yellow house in Mendocino in the 1860s. She takes both mermaid and human form as she leads readers on a fantastical journey through Mendocino's past. She swims in water towers, collects seaweed, rides whales, and makes art. The gorgeous full-color drawings (the artist wishes to remain anonymous) bring to life Gary Starr's magical tale. You'll also love the two-page factual history he added at the end, so young readers can learn more about the real Cinderella, along with much of what makes Mendocino such a special place to live. $10 Buy Now

Coloring Mendocino

In case you missed it, coloring is now popular with people of all ages! Not only is it fun, it's a great way to relax and unleash your inner creative – much needed during the pandemic. Color your way through historic Mendocino, with many of the buildings (including the Kelley House)

Up Lighthouse Road

Perfect for middle school readers who want to learn what it was like to be their age in the year 1913. They'll follow 8th grader Ginny as she describes and draws what it was like to live on the Mendocino Coast, learning about huckleberry picking, fog sirens, secret tobacco represented, as well as some contemporary scenes. Created by the artist Streetcolor, known for yarnbombing Mendocino and her collaborations with many California museums. $17 tins, and clothes ringers. By Betsy Wolff Frey. $10

BUY BOOKS

MEMBERSHIP

If you haven't renewed your membership, now is an ideal time. With our $50 basic Historian-level membership, you'll receive lots of great perks including free admission to the museum, a historical photo of your choice, access to member events, an hour of curated research, and recognition in our newsletter. Other levels come with even more benefits. We need you now more than ever!

JOIN TODAY

"HISTORY & MORE"

BOOK SALE

Saturday, May 29, 10am – 3pm

Your next great book adventure awaits! We'll be selling gently used books and discounted new Kelley House publications on the Saturday of Memorial Day Weekend. Look for us on the east porch and come support the Kelley House. If you would like to donate books, we'll accept history, gardening, or travel books. (Please – don't bring us fiction, kids' books, cookbooks, magazines or encyclopedias)! Drop them off at our office on Thursday - Sunday from 11am – 3pm, or leave them by the office door if after hours.

CALLING ALL COLLECTORS

The Kelley House Museum wants to feature the collections of local people in a series of small exhibits we're calling "Coastal Collections." We're looking for passionate individuals or groups willing to loan us for display the things they have gathered and treasured over the years. Would that be you?

Just about any subject matter with some kind of cohesive theme will be considered for inclusion in the exhibit schedule. We are most interested in displaying physical objects, photographs, or other images. As an example, our successful 2019 exhibit, "Wind & Water," featured framed maps, photos, vintage marine instruments, and a variety of ship-related items from the collection of Norman de Vall. The Museum has also displayed dolls and teddy bears loaned to us by Grace Van Doren, beautiful antique fans from Geraldine Pember, Frances Casey's Victorian button collection, and special objects from many other generous individuals.

Each exhibit will run about two months and will be promoted in our newsletter and on local media outlets. Invite your friends and family to come see what you've been collecting all these years!

EXHIBIT SPACE

- lockable, glass-sided display cases
- small amount of wall and floor space
- interpretive placards and labels
- a security and fire alarm system

CONTACT US

BENEFITS TO YOU

There is no cost to participate. Guest Exhibitors will receive with gratitude:

- Free admission to the museum for your family for one year
- Museum store discounts
- One historic photographic image from our 7,000+ archive
- A Mendocino Historical Research publication of your choice
- Recognition of your participation on our web page and in our newsletter

VOLUNTEERS NEEDED

Help Kelley House live its mission and reach more people. We still need more museum docents and tour guides. Training is fun and easy, plus you'll get to impress your friends with all your knowledge of Mendocino history! Contact us.

Kelley House Museum &
Research Center
(707) 937-5791

EMAIL
US

